The Berlin appointment

Creation 2009

Nantes

Long ago, Berlin was a swamp inhabited by Giants. They scattered large roots in the water which, over time, became trees which they cut down to make the trunks into stilts : a base for their homes. In one of them lived a Little Girl-Giant taken in by her uncle. As a gift, he gave her an incredible boat that travelled on land.

But one day, the Monsters of the Earth and water cut the city into two. One of the two pieces obtained was surrounded by walls. Thus, the Great Giant was separated from the Little Girl-Giant. His anger was so deep that he ran away through river and along the ocean floor in search of sleeping geysers under the sea. Many years elapsed before he found one. Then he carried it under the walls of the city and brutally awoke it. The earth shook, the walls crumbled, a storm broke out under the Little Girl-Giant's ship, smashing buildings, flinging tree roots.

When it all ended, the Great Giant came out of the river. Near her boat, the Little Girl-Giant saw a trunk stamped 'Lost Mail'. So, she decided to deliver the mail and join her uncle, the Great Giant.
